

The Anatomy

- of a -

FULL WEDDING INVITATION SUITE

Various optional pieces for a full wedding invitation suite

Invitation Card

This card invites your guests to your wedding.

RSVP Card

This card requests a response from your guests. You can also opt to request an online reply via a wedding website or QR code.

Wax Seal

Wax seals are an optional addition used to close your outer envelopes or to be used as a design element for your wedding invitaiton suite.

Invitation Pocket Fold

Pockets are an optional addition used to hold your invitations and enclosures in a single package inside your envelope(s). They are also a design element for your wedding invitaiton suite.

RSVP Envelope

This envelope is enclosed in your suite for your guests to mail back their RSVP card. It should be addressed to the person collecting reponses. A postage stamp should be placed in the upper right of the envelope.

Outer Envelope

This envelope is the outer-most envelope that contains all of your wedding invitation suite enclosures. It should be formally addressed to your guests, following wedding addressing etiquette and be stamped with adequate postage.

Ribbon

Ribbon is an optional addition used to hold your invitations and enclosures in a single package inside your envelope(s). They are also a design element for your wedding invitaiton suite.

Envelope Liners

Liners are an optional addition used as a design element for your wedding invitaiton suite.

Details Card

Details cards are additional cards that are for providing extra information to your guests such as reception location and time details, accommodations, directions and/or your wedding webiste URL. You may also opt to have a separate card for your reception, accommodations and directions.

Inner/Outer Envelopes

**Optional*

Double envelopes are a more traditional way of containing your wedding invitation suite enclosures. There is a lot of great history behind double envelopes! They have gone in and out of style, but still remain the recommended way of mailing as they provide added protection for your wedding invitation suite. Inner envelopes should be addressed with only the names of the specific guests invited to the wedding.

Thank You Card

Thank You cards are mailed out to your guests after your wedding to thank them for celebrating with you and to acknowledge their generosity for any gifts given.

Belly Band

Belly bands are an optional addition used to hold your invitations and enclosures in a single package inside your envelope(s). They are also a design element for your wedding invitaiton suite.

**You can also choose a full jacket instead of a belly band.*